Salishan Easter Egg Hunt

A large crowd of parents and excited children turned out last Sunday for the Salishan Easter Egg Hunt.

Adam John Puenter (l.) watched the Proceedings from his bike while Celeste Leeper checked her score at the Salishan Easter Egg Hunt.

Over 500 children participated in the Annual Salishan Easter Egg Hunt, on Saturday April 13. Over 125 dozen eggs were hid and 75 prizes given out to winners who found special eggs. Grand prizes went to: Adam John Puente, who won a tricycle; Jimmie Bell, a watch; and Celeste Leeper, a radio.

This event is sponsored each year by the Eastside Y-Women, a group sponsored by the Tacoma-Pierce County YWCA. Maureen Reardon was Chairwoman for the event. The success of this community sponsored project goes to those individuals and groups which contributed donations. Special thanks goes to the Tacoma South End Lion's Club, Tacoma Public Schools UURD-CIP Program, B.B. Appliance, Time Service Station, Park Avenue Barber Shop, Harter and Scott, Smith Brothers Dairy, the Salishan Alliance for Community Services, Lister Neighborhood Coordinating Committee, the YWCA Board of Directors, and 4-H for their contribution and support.

CARDINAL NEWMAN

Asian American Alliance

A ten week course on Korean culture has started at Fort Lewis. The free informal seminars are designed to provide a background in Korean history and culture for non-Koreans and focuses upon Korean women. Classes opened to the public meet each Wednesday evening from 7-9:30 p.m. in the library of Greenwood Elementary School. The program is in conjunction with an English class for Korean military wives. An English class with Mr. Chobg, instructor is held Tuesday and Thursday from 10:00 A.M. to 12 noon at Lakewood Lighthouse, 9511 Bridgport Way. The unusual is happening at Item House, a coat manufacturing firm. Many Asian women working are getting a new lease on life through an English language program just for them. Filipino, Korean, and Japanese women attend classes two hours a week after work for basic practical English. Another English class which is already underway is the one at the Tacoma Community House, 1311 So. "M" St., taught by Mrs. Fumi Kimura. The class meets each Wednesday from 10 A.M. to 1P.m. For further information call Asian American Alliance, 383-3951.

"EULOGY FOR A FRIEND"

RAY GIBSON, a giant of a man, is dead. However the memories of his many deeds will be remembered and appreciated by many of us for years to come. The Ray Gibson that most of us knew was always extending a helping hand, as was attested by the many friends who came to say a last farewell. He was steadfast in his convictions, that nobody will deny, yet he was a gentle and kind individual.

Some years ago he saw the need for a social club for his Brothers, and from that idea the Caballeros were organized. Today it is one of the most successful social clubs in the Northwest.

Mr. Gibson also created and invested in an airport taxi service before such services were available for Tacomans.

At one time I asked him to allow me to do a profile of him. He gave me a reluctant "No", but he qualified his answer by saying he wasn't against the article, but that just wasn't his Bag! He let it be known that his pursuit of happiness was his "inner faith".

I remember dancing with him only a few days before his untimely death. He was so joyful! That is the way I will always remember him. May his soul rest in peace.

IMPORTANT FOR MEMBERS TO ATTEND.

Progress House Celebrates Second Anniversary

Progress House Association passed another milestone April 10, 1974. This was the halfway house's second anniversary. The house officially opened its doors at 1119 South "G" Street, April 10, 1972.

Progress House is under the direction of Rev. Leo C. Brown, Jr., a very dynamic young man who started out with little more than a vision to help men in penal institutions with their problems. Progress House has been endorsed by Police Chief Lyle Smith, Ted Wiseman of Adult Probation and Parole, McNeil Island officials, judges, lawyers, parole officers, and the general public. The program is also endorsed on a state and federal level.

More than 200 men have been served since the doors of the halfway house opened. There men come from various levels. Some are federal work release, and others come from state institutions. We also accept court referrals in lieu of incarceration, and outreach clients with personal problems. This is a three month to one year program, offering individual counseling, group counseling, job placement, room and board, and family counseling.

Recently, a women's facility opened at 1124 South Ainsworth. This facility (Dorcas House) has accommodations for eight women.

The Progress House has been certified by the state as a drug treatment center and functions as a member of the Tacoma Pierce County Drug Alliance.

The Progress House has effectively helped men and women who have drug or alcohol related offenses and problems at a critical point in their lives. The staff's aim is to help the residents re-enter into society as useful and self reliant individuals. Presently the staff consists of Rev. Leo Brown, Executive Director, Robert Jones, House Supervisor, Mrs. Geraldine Merriweather, Head Counselor, Mrs. Barbara Fisher, Outreach Supervisor, Mrs. Shirley Jackson, Resource Developer, Ron Lincoln, Counselor, Jack Reardon, Counselor, Ms. Verda Blackwell, Secretary-Bookkeeper, and Mrs. Winnie F. Wells, Cook. Mrs. Irene Hordichok serves as a volunteer receptionist.

There was no formal celebration this year but the staff wants the community to know it is grateful for all the help received so far, and pledge our continous service to help Tacoma be a better place to reside. We also extend our hands to all who need us and our facility.

Tee AND Turf Golf Association

by Cliff Dabney

The fine weather over the weekend brought most of the members out to play. The club is moving but theres always room for more players. The scores over the weekend improved for most. Winston showed the way with a great 77 at Spanaway, Cooper is still having putting problems but still manages to shoot a good round. Herb's game is coming around and he has served warning to the front runners to watch out in a couple of weeks. The ladies are really doing well. I predict that Miss Alice will be a fine golfer, she played well Saturday and hit a lot of fine shots. The club will venture out to other courses next month and competition will start very soon. Anyone wishing to join may still do so by calling BR2-0985 or attending the next regular meeting on the first Thursday of May at the Esquire. Club play will also be on every Friday evening at 6 pm at Spanaway. Come out and join a great group of people. See you on the first tee at 9:51 Sat.

Dear Tac Vac

Q--There is a new program for VA medical care of certain dependents of veterans. Is the widowed mother of a veteran eligible? How is application made?

A--Parents are not eligible. Only the spouse, widow or child of a veteran who has a total and permanent service-connected disability or who died from a service-connected disability is eligible. The dependent or survivor must not be entitled to Champus or Social Security Medicare. Application is made on VA Form 10-10d for the VA Cost Sharing Program or the VA specialized medical care.

Q--I have seen several references to an "external degree" program offered by some universities. What is it and is such a program approved under the GI Bill?

A--It means a standard college degree given by an accredited college or university based on satisfactiry completion of a prescribed program of independent study. The program may require occasional attendance for a workshop or seminar and may include some regular residence course work. Independent study leading to a standard college degree may be approved under the GI Bill if specific requirements are met.

Q--My daughter has been totally disabled since age 20 as the result of an auto accident. I am receiving Social Security payments now, based on my military service and civilian employment since retiring. Is she also entitled to disability bebefits, based on my work record?

A--Yes. Those severly disabled before age 22 are entitled to monthly payments based on a parent's earnings. To qualify under a previous law, the disability must have been incurred before age 18.

Crying in the Beer

by Brian Jaybush

The suds are really flying in beer town.

As of this writing, a certain team called the Milwaukee Brewers is perched atop the standings of the American League's Eastern Division. Not that they've never been there before; once or twice in the last couple of seasons they've mabaged to squeeze themselves to the top of the standings. But not very often.

What makes their appearance in such rarified heights notable is the fact that (as many of you will sadly remember) the same team once toiled in Sicks' Seattle Stadium under the guise of the Seattle Pilots. That was for one season, 1969--and in that year they finished dead last in the AL West.

Perhaps it would be better to say it was the same franchise that labored in the Queen City that summer. Actually, not much is recognizeable between the Winged Wonders of '69 and the Booze Braid of '74. Not only have the names been changed to protect the innocent, but it was switched from the West to the East division.

When you look down the Brewer roster, you won't find a whole lot of names that ring five-year-old bells. Gone are the Tommy Harpers and the Mike Hegans and the Diego Seguis. Gone are all the names that warmed the cockles of Seattle's collective heart for 162 games. Gone even is manager Dave Bristol, who was the manager the Pilots hired just before shifting to Milwaukee (and the one who never managed one game in Seattle.)

Even the owners are different; but you knew that--the original owners wouldn't have deserted Seattle, would they.

This summer, when you sit in the quiet solitude of Sicks' Stadium and watch Seattle's answer to professional baseball, the class 'A' Rainiers, you can take solace in the fact that your old team is alive and well. But it's not in Milwaukee. It's spread all over the country, in the hearts of those who played ball in the powder blue uniforms of the Pilots, and in the hearts of those who came out bravely to watch them stumble their way through that one season. Forget that bunch in Suds City--they're not a reincarnation of the Pilots. They're just another baseball team, trying their best to depose Oakland as the best team in baseball. And having a long way to go.

More Answers to Landlord-Tenant Questions

(Note: This is the second article in a series on landlord-tenant rights and responsibilities. All of the information in these articles is taken from the Model Cities "Landlord-Tenant Handbook." For a copy of the handbook, call Don Hines at 593-4660. For landlord-tenant problems, call Dick Mason at 593-4660.)

How can a landlord end a tenancy?

A landlord can end a rental of his apartment for any reason or for no reason at all as long as he gives proper written notice to the tenant. A lease can be terminated before it ends by an agreement of both the landlord and the tenant. A landlord cannot physically remove a tenant without a court order, but a tenant must move if he has been given notice. The landlord cannot turn off utilities except to make reasonable repairs.

How much notice does a landlord have to give?

Unless you have a long term lease, the landlord can end a rental with written notice 20 days before the end of a rental period (normally the day rent is payed). If your rent is due on the first of the month, the landlord must give you written notice by the 10th of the month.

Under special situations, notice of end of a rental agreement can be shorter than 20 days. 1) When the renter has not payed his rent, the landlord can give a three-day written notice to pay the rent or vacate. 2) If the renter does not comply with the rental agreement or lease, the landlord can give 10 days written notice to comply with the agreement. 3) If the renter is causing extensive damage to the property, creating a serious nuisance, or conducting an unlawful business on the premises, the landlord can give a three-day written notice to vacate.

How can a landlord evict a tenant?

The landlord cannot force a renter out of an apartment on his own. The landlord must go to court, get a court order, and have the sheriff remove the renter. For details on eviction procedure, call a lawyer or ask for one of the Model Cities "Landlord Tenant Handbooks."

Coloring Books Cheer Children

Children at Mary Bridge Children's Hospital received an Easter gift this week thanks to one of the Model Cities task forces.

Rosia Edge, task force chairman, delivered an arm-load of coloring books to the hospital on Monday as a gift from the Law and Justice, Health, and Social Services Task Force (LJHSS). Within the past few months the task force has sponsored a number of projects to help Model Neighborhood programs and needy individuals.

The LJHSS Task Force and the Housing and Manpower Task Force, which meets with the Land Use Review Board, meet at McCarver School at 6:30 pm on the first Monday of each month. Hundreds of Letters Sent to Congress

About 350 letters and 750 signatures on petitions from Tacomans are on their way to Congress asking for full funding of Model Cities. The letters and petitions are the result of a national letter-writing campaign concluded this week.

Tacoma's letters will be arriving about the same time as letters from many other Model Cities programs across the nation to impress Congress with the need for additional money.

Model Cities directors and concerned citizens are meeting in Washington, D.C., this week to bring attention to the requests of citizens and to explain the critical need for additional funds for transition to revenue sharing. The National Model Cities Community Development Directors Association and the National Citizens Participation Council will be talking with national officials hoping to work out a plan for additional funding.

The two national groups are asking Congress to restore Model Cities funding to the level existing before Jan. 1, 1974 and to continue citizens participation in future legislation. The groups are asking the Administration to release $75 million in impounded Model Cities funds to help ease the transition to revenue sharing.

Model Cities and other federally funded housing programs such as Urban Renewal are expected to be phased out and to eventually be funded by community development revenue sharing. Congress hopes to pass the legislation for community development by July 1 and to make funds available by Jan. 1, 1975.

Tacoma's program is scheduled to operate through December, 1974, which would coincide with Congress's current timetable; but most cities, such as Seattle, will run out of funds long before December. These programs will die unless Congress passes some additional funds or unless impounded funds are released.

The push for additional Model Cities funds was designed to bring the critical need to the attention of Congress and the Administration.

Many of Tacoma's Model Cities projects will end before December unless more funds are made available. The recent $500,000 grant is not enough to keep all of Model Cities' current projects operating.

Even though the letter-writing campaign is over, you can still write your Congressman and tell him that you want Model Cities to continue. Congress will be working on community development legislation for several months.

If you write your Congressman, here are their addresses:

An Open Letter to the Residents of the Eastside of Tacoma

The Eastside Neighborhood Center at 1720 East 44th Street has been operational since January of this year. We provide programming and space for programming for all segments of the community. Presently we are open Monday through Friday and anticipate opening on Saturday.

It is our belief that a neighborhood center should have an active and constant input from the community it serves to better serve the needs of that community. Toward this end we are soliciting your ideas, wants and needs. Please come by and talk with us or give us a call at 474-5673.

We have distributed over 500 letters asking for the suggestions and ideas of residents on the Eastside. We are also planning a community meeting for the end of April. At this meeting we hope to see a large number of people who are interested in the Eastside Neighborhood Center. We will be anticipating your ideas and suggestions to help us plan activities at the Center. If you are interested in such a meeting, please give us a call. 474-5673.

Task Force Discusses Regional Conference

Executive Board Chairman Junior N.R. Ellis announced plans for a regional citizens conference to be held May 8-11 in Portland. He made the announcement at the Model Cities Combined Task Force meeting Monday.

The conference is being sponsored by the Region Ten Citizens Council, which will hold its annual meeting at the same conference. New officers will be elected on the last day of the conference. Mr. Ellis is the current president of the regional council.

The task force chairman said he thought two members from each task force should be sent to the conference to report back to local citizens.

"Transition and Social Change Workshop" is the theme of the conference. Registration for the workshop is $15; meals and lodging are additional. Anyone interested in attending the conference can get more information from the Model Cities citizen participation component at 593-4660.

Model Cities Budget to Council

The budget for a $500,000 Model Cities grant will go to the City Council for approval on April 23.

Housing and physical improvement projects received most of the grant as Model Cities looks ahead to formation of a new city Department of Housing and Community Development. Many of the social programs funded by Model Cities in the past have been transferred to the Department of Human Development.

The following list will give more details about the projects receiving funds:

Neighborhood Development Program ($75,000) - The NDP is a housing rehabilitation and physical improvement program in a six-block area in the Model Neighborhood. The program is operated by Urban Renewal.

Municipal Authority ($50,000) - The MA will use the additional funds to make loans and grants for home rehabilitation.

Yakima Square ($50,000) - This development will be a service center for the community and apartments for elderly and handicapped. The center will be operated by the Tacoma Urban League. Model Cities funds will be used for professional and technical services.

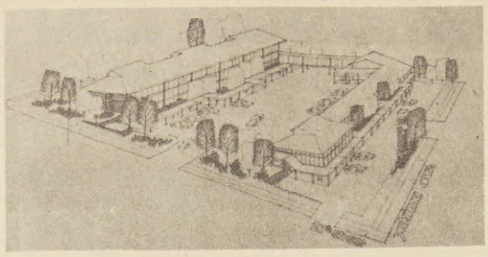
Public Defender ($29,598) - Public Defender provides a lawyer for low-income persons being tried in Municipal Courts in Tacoma. The Model Cities funds will be matched with a grant from the state if approved by the state law and justice office.

Drug Education ($27,876) - This is a new drug program to reach the black drug abuser. The program will work with existing drug programs helping them meet the needs of the black drug abuser.

Tacoma Area Child Tutoring ($18,208) - TACT is a tutoring program for grade school children needing help in reading or math.

Family Clinic ($15,640) - The clinic helps low-income persons find regular health care. It provides some medical care in the office with the rest of the services donated by doctors and medical service groups.

Minority Contractors ($12,768) - This association of contractors helps local contractors with consultants, bonds, a bid exchange, and other services needed to compete with larger companies. The association is becoming self-supporting, and should continue on its own after Model Cities is phased out.



MODEL CITIES Executive Board approved $50,000 for professional and technical services to finance a service center called Yakima Square. The development will also provide housing for elderly and handicapped.

Adult Outreach ($8,640) - The program helps ex-offenders make a successful transition from institutions to society. The funds are to make up for a lag in funding from other sources. The project is now operated by the Department of Human Development.

Mini-Park at 25th and Sheridan ($4,000) - The funds are a match for state funds to develop the mini-park.

Environmental Health ($3,820) - The Model Cities program funded this rat control program last year, and the additional funds will allow the crew to clean up trash that has accumulated and to spray brush again.

Explorer Scholarships ($1,800) - Three students will be awarded scholarships to work with scientific research projects in the United States.

Group Home ($2,000) - This home will provide delinquent and disturbed youth with a home and with counselling. The funds will be a match for state law and justice funds.

Peoples Park ($650) - St. Leo's Church and Allen A.M.E. Church are planning to develop a mini-park behind their churches. Model Cities will pay for the grass turf.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development has recommended that $200,000 be set aside to merge some of the processes developed by Model Cities into city government. Part of the money will be used to start the new Department of Housing and Community Development.

ONE OF THE smaller projects approved by the Model Cities Executive Board was $4,000 for development of the mini-park at 25th and Sheridan. The City Council was expected to approve an application for $12,000 in state funds this week to complete the job.
